KASOL TO KASOL

Short itinerary

- ⦿ Day1: Arrival at Kasol
- ⦿ Day2: From Kasol to Bunbuni
- ⦿ Day3: From Bunbuni to Kasol

Day 1:

Arrival at Kasol

The picturesque Himalayan village of Kasol sits snugly on the banks of the Parvati River. Kasol, sometimes referred to as the “Amsterdam of India,” is quickly becoming a famous destination for hikers, campers, and ecotourists. One of the greatest spots in the nation to just sit back and relax in the panorama of snow-clad mountains, pine trees, and tranquil river is the valley, which is located 23 kilometres from Bhuntar and near to the holy town of Manikaran. Many trekkers use the paths that begin in Kasol to reach the passes of Yanker, Sar, Pin Parbati, and Kheerganga. Visit the hamlet of Malana to see the local culture firsthand. Just a short distance from Kasol is the little village of Malana, where the inhabitants have chosen to live in complete seclusion. Many refer to the town as “Little Greece” because of its abundance of picturesque landmarks. Overnight stay in double, triple or quad sharing hotel in Kasol.

Day 2:

From Kasol to Bunbuni

After breakfast, embark on a trek from Kasol to Bunbuni Pass Base Camp. The trek route passes through picturesque landscapes, dense forests, and lush meadows. Enjoy breathtaking views of the surrounding mountains and valleys along the way. Reach Bunbuni Pass Base Camp by late afternoon or early evening. Set up camp for the night and relax amidst the tranquility of the Himalayas. Dinner and overnight stay at the base camp.

Day 3:

From Bunbuni to Kasol

Wake up early to start your ascent towards Bunbuni Pass, which stands at an altitude of approximately 4,200 meters. The trek to Bunbuni Pass involves a steep and challenging climb, so pace yourself accordingly and take breaks as needed. Reach Bunbuni Pass by late morning or midday and soak in the mesmerizing panoramic views of the surrounding peaks and valleys. Spend some time at the pass, capturing photographs and enjoying the serenity of the high-altitude landscape. Begin your descent back to Kasol after exploring Bunbuni Pass and your trip ends here.
